Sponsorship Opportunities

EuroSys is the premier European conference on various aspects of systems software research and development, including its ramifications for hardware and applications. It covers topics in operating systems, databases, real-time systems, networking, storage, middleware, distributed, parallel, and embedded computing. The conference is a highly selective venue, with historical acceptance rates of usually under 20%. As such, it attracts top scientists and experts from the entire world. We are expecting 400-500 attendees.

Why sponsor? Sponsoring EuroSys provides branding and name recognition. It also allows our broader community to grow, resulting in new ideas, more attendees, better visibility and greater funding for research. EuroSys is an important venue for recruiting and maintaining the pipeline of students at every level of studies. In the past, industry support for these conferences has been a crucial part of the conference's success.

Fund Uses: Sponsorships allow us to provide economic support for students by funding their registrations, travel and lodging. Sponsorships are also used to pay for social events where most of the networking takes place and where new opportunities for collaboration between industry and academia often arise. Finally, sponsorships help us provide affordable registration fees for the entire community.
